Marcello Boati

Marcello is an Associate Registered Nutritionist in the United Kingdom and is currently taking a Master Degree in Global Public Health Nutrition at the University of Westminster in London. His bachelor's dissertation focused on nutrition interventions at workplace in small and medium companies in developed countries, focusing on healthy eating and physical activity. The dissertation was the basis to open his start up project during the summer of 2017, aiming at introducing healthy eating practice and lifestyle changes for employees and in companies cultures. Following that experience he moved to Australia and subsequently volunteered in The Philippines in a public health project aimed at helping the local health services in day-to-day activities, screening and mapping of the rural communities, raising nutrition awareness and immunization campaigns in schools.